Vitamin E –the well-known nutrient–is a group of eight fat-soluble compounds with distinctive antioxidant properties - 4 tocopherols (alpha, beta, delta, and gamma) and 4 tocotrienols (also alpha, beta, delta, and gamma). A deeper look at this Vitamin may have been the most important discovery of all time. According to clinical studies, Delta and Gamma Tocotrienols are the most potent forms of Vitamin E, with significant health benefits. Studies conducted on both molecules (Tocotrienols and Tocopherols) reveal that Tocotrienols are 50 times more potent as an antioxidant, making it the most effective form of Vitamin E ever!

The Secret of Amazon - Annatto

Eannatto DeltaGold Tocotrienols - a powerful antioxidant supplement is derived from the Annatto plant (or Bixa Orellana) found in the Amazonian forest. This unique form of vitamin E contains no tocopherols, which is extremely rare. According to research, Vitamin E should contain less than 10% alpha-tocopherol for the highest efficiency because the alpha-tocopherols interfere with the functions and benefits of tocotrienols due to their size, speed, and chemical structure. Only the Annatto plant-derived Vitamin E contains zero Tocopherol and 100% Tocotrienols, in its pure and raw form, naturally.

Tocopherols

Larger head + Longer tail =
Interferes with the movement of tocotrienols.

Tocotrienols

Smaller head + Shorter tail =
Greater flexibility and mobility.

The critical difference between these two molecule groups is that tocotrienols are more agile and efficient, moving 50 times faster in the cell membrane than tocopherols. Their incredible speed and agility make them super antioxidants.

Health Benefits of Tocotrienols

Support Cardiovascular Health

Tocotrienols have been shown to simultaneously lower cholesterol, triglycerides and inflammation. They support healthy blood lipid levels.

Support Bone Health

Tocotrienols have demonstrated help in resisting bone loss in a human clinical trial of post-menopausal osteopenia subjects.

Help regulate fat in the liver

NAFLD (non-alcoholic fatty liver disease) affects approximately 25% of the US population. In a clinical trial, Tocotrienols were found to reduce fat, toxic metabolites, and inflammation in such patients).

Promote Cell Health

Tocotrienols help protect cells from free radical damage. They also provide anti-oxidation protection to the cell's protective layer, called the cell membrane. The antioxidant properties of tocotrienol are highly effective in maintaining a strong cell membrane.

Help regulate Inflammation

Tocotrienols' proven ability to reduce inflammation can help improve your overall health.

Uphold a Healthy Blood Sugar Level

Tocotrienols may benefit patients who need help managing blood sugar and insulin levels.

May Benefit Skin

Tocotrienols may reduce hyper-pigmentation, help with skin repair, and provide protection from light exposure.

May Provide Radiation Protection

Tocotrienols may help protect sensitive cells from destructive ionizing radiation.

May Help in Cholesterol Management

Tocotrienols may help manage the healthy blood cholesterol levels.

Boost Brain Health

Tocotrienols may contribute to better brain health. Population-based studies conducted by the Karolinska Institute showed that higher levels of vitamin E tocopherols and tocotrienols in elderly subjects were associated with a lower risk of cognitive impairment.

The Founder

Dr. Barrie Tan - The World's Foremost Expert on Vitamin E

Dr. Barrie Tan is the world's leading scientist and expert in Vitamin E. His passion led him to discover Tocotrienols from rice, palm, and the Annatto Plant. Dr. Tan has spent over 35 years studying, and understanding plant-based sources of Vitamin E. Dr. Tan refers to Annatto as the 'One Plant Wonder'.

The tocotrienols extraction from Annatto was done via Deltagold technology. It is a unique patented technology, formulated by Dr. Barrie Tan. He received the first-ever Annatto-patent for its uniquely sustainable extraction method in 2022. This patent has the GRAS or Generally Recognized as Safe Status by the FDA.
